- (1) Admission to the legal profession shall be withdrawn with effect for the future if facts subsequently become known which mean that admission would have had to be refused had such facts been known at the time. A dispensation may be granted so that admission to the legal profession is not revoked if the reasons for refusing admission no longer exist.
- (2) Admission to the legal profession shall be revoked,
 1. if a Rechtsanwalt has forfeited a fundamental right by virtue of a decision of the Federal Constitutional Court;
 2. if a Rechtsanwalt has become unfit to take public office on grounds of a criminal conviction;

6. (repealed)
 7. if a Rechtsanwalt's finances have fallen into a state of deterioration, unless this does not put the interests of the client at risk; a state of financial deterioration shall be assumed if insolvency proceedings have been instituted against the Rechtsanwalt or the Rechtsanwalt has been entered in the register to be kept by the Insolvency Court or the Enforcement Court (§ 26 para. 2 of the Insolvency Code, § 915 of the Code of Civil Procedure);
 8. if a Rechtsanwalt engages in an occupation which is inconsistent with the Rechtsanwalt's profession, in particular with the Rechtsanwalt's status as an independent agent in the administration of justice, or which may undermine confidence in the Rechtsanwalt's independence; this shall not be the case if the revocation would be an unreasonably harsh measure for the person in question;
 9. if a Rechtsanwalt does not maintain the mandatory professional indemnity insurance (§ 51).

The report shall be made by a medical practitioner chosen by the Bar. The report must be based on a medical examination and, if the public health officer considers this to be necessary, also on a clinical observation of the person concerned. The costs of the medical report shall be borne by the person concerned.

- (2) Reasons shall be given for any orders made under para. 1 and these shall be served. They may be challenged with the legal remedies available against administrative acts which involve a burden. They have no suspensive effect.
- (3) If the medical report is not submitted within the period of time set by the Bar, without there being adequate reasons, it shall be assumed that the person concerned is unfit to properly practise the profession of Rechtsanwalt for longer than merely a temporary period.

- (1) It is not permissible to agree on or to bill for lower fees and disbursements than those provided for in the Act pertaining to the Remuneration of Lawyers (Rechtsanwaltsvergütungsgesetz) in as far as nothing to the contrary is set out therein. In the individual case a Rechtsanwalt may give consideration to a client's particular personal circumstances, particularly the client's impecuniousness, by lowering his/her fees or by waiving fees or disbursements after bringing the case to a conclusion.
- (2) Agreements under which remuneration or the amount of fees depend on the outcome of the case or on the success of the Rechtsanwalt's work or under which the Rechtsanwalt keeps a part of the award made by the court as a fee (contingency fees) are not permitted, unless the Act pertaining to the Remuneration of Lawyers provides otherwise. Agreements under which the Rechtsanwalt takes on the obligation to cover court costs, administrative costs or costs incurred by other parties are not permissible. An agreement that the statutory fees are simply increased with no further conditions does not constitute a contingency fee as defined in sentence 1.
- (3) It is not permissible to pay and accept a part of the fees or other benefits for acting as agent in obtaining instructions from clients, whether in relation to a Rechtsanwalt or in relation to third parties of any kind. However, it is permissible to pay a reasonable fee for the work of another Rechtsanwalt which goes beyond the scope of number 3400 of Annex 1 to the Act pertaining to the Remuneration of Lawyers. The fees must take account of the responsibility and potential liability borne by the Rechtsanwälte involved and also of any other circumstances. The agreement of such a fee must not be made a precondition for accepting instructions.
A number of Rechtsanwälte may collaborate on one case and share the fees amongst themselves in a way which is appropriate to the work, the responsibility borne and their potential liability. Sentences 2 and 3 do not apply to Rechtsanwälte who are admitted before the Federal Supreme Court.
- (4) It is permissible to assign claims to remuneration or to delegate the collection thereof to other Rechtsanwälte or to a joint practice of Rechtsanwälte (§ 59a). Apart from that, assignment or delegation are only permissible if the client's express written consent has been obtained, or if the claim has become res judicata. Prior to the client's consent, the client shall be informed as to the Rechtsanwalt's duty to inform the new creditor or person authorized to collect the claim. The new creditor or authorized person shall observe professional secrecy in the same way as the Rechtsanwalt who accepted the instructions.

- (5) Where fees are charged in proportion to the value of the matter handled by the Rechtsanwalt, the Rechtsanwalt shall inform the client accordingly before he/she accepts instructions.

BRAO § 50 The Rechtsanwalt's files

- (1) A Rechtsanwalt must be in a position to give an orderly account of his/her professional work. This must be done by creating files.
- (2) The Rechtsanwalt must keep the files for five years after bringing a case to a conclusion. However this duty shall lapse, even before this period has ended, if the Rechtsanwalt has requested the client to take the files and the client has not met this request within six months of receiving it.
- (3) A Rechtsanwalt may refuse to surrender the files to the client until the Rechtsanwalt's fees and disbursements have been paid. This shall not be the case in as far as it would be unreasonable in the circumstances to withhold the files or individual documents.
- (4) Files in the meaning of para.s 2 and 3 of this provision are only the documents which the Rechtsanwalt has received for or on behalf of the client on grounds of his/her professional practice, but not the correspondence between the Rechtsanwalt and the client nor documents where the client has already received the original or a copy.
- (5) Para. 4 shall apply accordingly in as far as the Rechtsanwalt uses electronic data processing in order to keep files.

BRAO § 51 Professional indemnity insurance

- (1) A Rechtsanwalt must take out professional indemnity insurance in order to cover his/her potential liability for financial loss resulting from his/her professional practice. The Rechtsanwalt must maintain the insurance for the duration of his/her admission. The insurance must be taken out with an insurance company that is authorised to conduct business operations in Germany under the General Terms and Conditions of Insurance set out in the Insurance Supervisory Act (Versicherungsaufsichtsgesetz). The insurance must also cover financial loss for which the Rechtsanwalt is liable under § 278 or § 831 of the German Civil Code.
- (2) The contract of insurance must afford coverage for each and every breach of duty which could result in legal liability claims being brought against the Rechtsanwalt under private law; it may be agreed that all breaches of duty in connection with one uniform mandate shall be regarded as a single case of loss, whether this is due to the conduct of the Rechtsanwalt or of a vicarious agent assisting the Rechtsanwalt.

- (3) The contract of insurance may exclude liability for:
 1. claims against the insurer on grounds of a deliberate breach of duty,
 2. claims against the insurer on grounds of services rendered through law practices or offices established or run in other countries,
 3. claims against the insurer on grounds of services involving legal advice in non-European law and concerning oneself with such law,
 4. claims against the insurer arising from the Rechtsanwalt appearing before courts outside Europe,
 5. claims for damages due to embezzlement by staff, relatives and partners of the Rechtsanwalt.
- (4) The minimum coverage shall be 250,000 euro for each case of loss.

The benefits paid out by the insurer for all losses caused within an insurance year may be limited to four times the minimum coverage.
- (5) It shall be permissible to agree on an excess of up to 1 per cent of the minimum coverage.
- (6) In the contract of insurance the insurer must undertake to immediately notify the responsible Bar, and also the Federal Ministry of Justice where Rechtsanwälte at the Federal Supreme Court are concerned, of the commencement and the end or termination of the contract of insurance and of any amendment to the contract of insurance that negatively affects the prescribed coverage. Upon application, the Bar shall provide information regarding the name and address of the Rechtsanwalt's professional indemnity insurance as well as regarding the insurance number to third parties wishing to assert damage claims, insofar as the Rechtsanwalt has no overriding legitimate interest in the non-disclosure of this information; this also applies when admission to the Bar has expired.
- (7) The competent authority as defined by § 158c para. 2 of the Insurance Contract Act (Gesetz über den Versicherungsvertrag) is the Bar.
- (8) The Federal Ministry of Justice shall have powers to set a different minimum coverage by way of statutory order with the approval of the Upper House of Parliament (Bundesrat) after seeking the opinion of The German Federal Bar, should this be necessary in order to ensure adequate protection for the injured parties in changed financial circumstances.

BRAO § 51a Contractual limit on claims for compensation

- (1) The client's claims for damages due to negligence under the contract between the client and the Rechtsanwalt may be limited:
 1. to the sum of the minimum coverage by written agreement in the individual case;
 2. to four times the sum of the minimum coverage under a standard contract in the case of ordinary negligence, if such coverage is afforded.

- (2) Members of a partnership are jointly and severally liable under the contract between themselves and the client. Personal liability for damages may be limited under a standard contract to individual members of a partnership who work on the case within the framework of their own professional rights and who are mentioned by name. The statement of consent to such limitation of liability may not contain any further statements and must be signed by the client.

In other cases the deputy shall be appointed by the Bar on the Rechtsanwalt's application.
- (3) (repealed)
- (4) The Bar should appoint a Rechtsanwalt as deputy. It may also appoint other persons who have qualified to become a judge or trainees (Referendare) who have been in preparatory service for at least twelve months. § 7 shall apply accordingly.
- (5) In the cases set out in para. 1 the Bar may appoint the deputy ex officio if the Rechtsanwalt has omitted to take a measure required under para. 2 sentence 1 or to apply for the appointment of a deputy under para. 2 sentence 3. However the deputy should not be appointed until the Rechtsanwalt has first been requested to appoint the deputy himself/herself or to submit an application in accordance with para. 2 sentence 3 and the time limit set for this has expired to no avail. A Rechtsanwalt who has been appointed ex officio as a deputy may only refuse to serve as deputy if there are important grounds for doing so.
- (6) The Rechtsanwalt must notify the Bar of the appointment of a deputy in the cases set out in para. 2 sentence 1.
- (7) The deputy shall have the rights of the Rechtsanwalt for whom he/she is deputising.
- (8) The appointment may be revoked.
- (9) The deputy shall act on his/her own responsibility, but in the interests of, on the account of and at the expense of the Rechtsanwalt for whom he/she is deputising. §§ 666, 667 and 670 of the Civil Code shall apply accordingly.

- (10) A deputy who is appointed ex officio shall have the right to enter the offices of the law practice in question and to take possession of, demand surrender of and make dispositions in respect of the items belonging to the law practice, including the items that have been entrusted to the Rechtsanwalt in a fiduciary capacity. The deputy shall not be bound by instructions from the Rechtsanwalt for whom he/she is deputising. The Rechtsanwalt for whom the deputy is deputising may not unduly interfere with the deputy's work. The Rechtsanwalt must pay a deputy who has been appointed ex officio a reasonable fee for which a security must be provided if circumstances so require. If the parties cannot agree on the sum of the fee or on the security or if the security is not provided, the Council of the Bar may set the fee on the application of the Rechtsanwalt who is being deputised or on the application of the deputy. The deputy has the right to demand advances on the fee which has been agreed or set. The Bar shall stand as surety for a fee which has been set.

The liquidator shall continue to work on the current cases; in the first six months the liquidator shall also have the right to accept fresh instructions. The liquidator shall have the same rights that the deceased Rechtsanwalt had. In respect of the pending matters the liquidator shall be deemed appointed by the party in as far as this party has not made alternative arrangements for the protection of his/her rights.

This does not apply if and in as far as the Rechtsanwalt would thus be in breach of the duty of professional secrecy or if providing a truthful response or submitting his/her files would involve a risk of being prosecuted on grounds of a criminal offence, a breach of administrative rules or a breach of professional ethics and the Rechtsanwalt invokes this as a reason. The Rechtsanwalt's attention must be drawn to the right to refuse to supply information.
- (2) In Bar mediation procedure, a Rechtsanwalt must upon request appear before the Council of the Bar or of an authorised member of the Council. The petition must indicate the facts which allegedly justify the institution of proceedings before a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court and evidence must be provided.
- (3) If the Public Prosecutor's office takes no decision under para. 1 within one month of the petition of the Council of the Bar to institute proceedings against a Rechtsanwalt before a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court and if it does not file a writ of accusation within this period of time, it shall give the Council of the Bar the opportunity to give its opinion. If the Council of the Bar has indicated within three weeks that it considers it necessary and possible to expedite the conclusion of the investigations, stating the reasons, and if the Public Prosecutor's office takes none of the decisions set out in sentence 1 within a further two months, the Council of the Bar may petition the Higher Lawyers' Court for a ruling concerning the institution of proceedings before a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court. Para. 2 sentence 2 shall apply. A Rechtsanwalt may not make such a petition on grounds of behaviour for which a fine has been threatened or set (§ 57) or for which he/she has received a reprimand from the Council of the Bar (§ 74).
- (2) If the Public Prosecutor's office does not grant the Rechtsanwalt's petition or if it orders the proceedings to be closed, it shall notify its decision to the Rechtsanwalt, stating the reasons. If the reasons show that a negligent breach of duty has been found, but no proceedings are instituted before a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court or if it is left open whether there has been a negligent breach of duty, the Rechtsanwalt may petition the Higher Lawyers' Court for a ruling. The petition must be filed within one month of the announcement of the decision taken by the Public Prosecutor's office.
- (3) § 173 para.s 1 and 3 of the Code of Criminal Procedure shall apply accordingly in the proceedings before the Higher Lawyers' Court. The Higher Lawyers' Court shall pronounce a ruling determining whether the Rechtsanwalt has committed a negligent breach of duty. Reasons must be given for the decision. If the Higher Lawyers' Court considers that there is sufficient evidence of a breach of duty which is punishable by sanctions from a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court, it shall order that proceedings shall be instituted before a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court. The Public Prosecutor's office shall be responsible for enforcing this decision.

- (4) If the Higher Lawyers' Court does not consider that there has been a negligent breach of duty, a petition for the institution of proceedings before a Lawyers' Disciplinary Court may only be made or a reprimand may only be issued by the Council of the Bar on grounds of the same behaviour if new facts or evidence come to light.

This may only be done within five years of the ruling becoming final.

BRAO § 133 Service of the ruling opening the main proceedings
